Artissima preview | Seven stands to look out for this weekend

Dai! The 23rd edition of Italy's most important contemporary art fair kicks off today, bringing — as usual — both emerging and somewhat forgotten artists to the fore. This year, Artissima welcomes 193 galleries to the Oval, built in 2006 to host the Winter Olympics. The number is slightly less than last year, and 65% of the participants are non-Italian.

Under director Sarah Cosulich Canarutto, at Artissima since 2012, the curatorial dimension of the fair has developed remarkably.

This year, Artissima has no less than seven sections: Main Section, New Entries, Art Editions, Back to the Future, Dialogue, Per4m (performances) and Present Future.

Here's our pick of the stands to check out this week-end:
